YOUR PAPER, YOUR PLACE

FROM THE EDITOR

You have to wonder at times what makes some people tick.

The deliberate spilling of oil onto a suburban driveway and postbox (see page 3) has got to be up there with the top inane ideas embraced by any crackpot anywhere.

Even if the oil-spilling perpetrator felt they had just cause, seeking revenge by tipping out oil where people could be walking, cycling or driving seems to be stupid beyond belief.

Whatever happened to face-to-face discourse in the event of disagreements – imagined or otherwise?

And if that doesn't work, there are a host of other steps that can be taken without putting innocent people in danger.

This instant, knee-jerk need for revenge pops up at every turn today.

It sometimes occurs to me that the ease with which people can express vitriol via social media platforms has spawned a belief out there that absolutely anything goes.

Mistaken identity leads to damage

EMMA JAMES

A Cambridge couple believes a case of mistaken identity has led to two separate incidents leaving their driveway stained by engine oil.

Twice in the past six weeks, Jenny and Gordon Baker have woken up to the oil poured across their Tulip Dr driveway and over their letterbox.

It happened for the first time in February, and again last week.

“There was oil spilt on the footpath and down the road towards the high school, and we found the oil can by the high school under the construction sign,” Jenny said.

She said it took two weeks and $400 to remove the stain from their driveway last time.

Gordon works as a caretaker at Cambridge Middle School and initially wondered if it had something to do with the arson that took place on school grounds earlier this year, but CCTV footage they have seen shows an older person.

“I don’t really have anything to do with the students at school so we have no reason to believe that we have upset someone,” he said.

“We haven’t offended someone so much that they would do something like this.”

Gordon and Jenny think the person doing the damage might believe someone else lives at their address, so they are being targeted accidentally.

They have since installed LED lighting that illuminates their entire driveway, and will now have to spend even more money to get rid of the stain for a second time.

Jenny and Gordon Baker have had engine poured over their driveway twice in the last six weeks. They believe they have been wrongfully targeted.

“It’s cost us about $3000 to date and if we have to replace the concrete it will be closer to $10,000,” said Gordon.

He thinks the oil may come from a diesel motor.

Jenny said she has become quite paranoid, checking the driveway every night before she goes to bed, and going to bed later than usual.

Sergeant Gordon Grantham of the Cambridge Police also believes the couple has been mistaken for someone else.

“Some CCTV camera footage from the area has been viewed and enquiries are continuing,” he said.

Shed competition winners

VIV POSSELT

Sunday turned out to be a shed-load of fun for those at the street carnival’s ‘Best Little Shed’ fundraising competition finale at the lively end of Empire St.

All six painted sheds were auctioned off to new homes, prizes were won, and a figure of $3000 – and rising – was raised for the Waikato-Bay of Plenty Cancer Society.

The event was a new Cambridge Autumn Festival addition.

It was the brainchild of Mark Watts from Lugtons Cambridge.

The six teams involved were five banks – ASB, BNZ, ANZ, Kiwibank and Westpac – and Cambridge High School (CHS).

Five real estate companies funded the sheds – Lugtons Cambridge, Bayleys Cambridge, Cambridge Real Estate, LJ Hooker Cambridge, and Harcourts Cambridge.

The Cambridge Autumn Festival committee invited CHS to create the sixth shed.

Mitre 10 Mega in Cambridge supplied the sheds at preferential prices, and Resene Paints NZ donated the paint.

With all that in hand, each of the six teams had to construct and paint their shed to reflect their version of the ‘Cambridge’ theme.

BNZ whisked off the overall trophy as winner of the Battle of the Banks competition.

The Best Artwork trophy went to Kiwibank, and the People’s Choice Award went to the Cambridge High School team.

LOVELY PARK

I generally don't read the letters to the editor or make public comment. However I have just taken my dogs for a walk through the new oak arboretum on the town belt in Cambridge North between Swayne Rd and Watkins Rd. This is coming on nicely with the tree surrounds removed, trees form pruned, mulched and weed sprayed. It isn't Hagley Park yet, but it's certainly changing into an asset.

Nice job Waipa District Council.

FESTIVAL PRAISE

We have had friends visiting from the United States for a few weeks and have really enjoyed getting out and about, mostly in the Waikato area. They will soon return home, but one of the best things we have done as their visit draws to a close has been to go to some recent events in Cambridge – I was told they were part of the annual Autumn Festival held in the town. We went to a couple of the evening shows and enjoyed wandering around with the crowds during Sunday's street festival.

One of our friends said they have a similar event in their small town. They were delighted by the range of entertainment in the programme, and commented particularly on the mood of the day. They said everyone they spoke to was really helpful and friendly. They wanted me to pass on their thanks. Our friends leave to return home at the end of this week, but will take with them some good memories and a few trinkets from that day.

Thank you everyone.

The best way to protect yourself and your loved ones is to get vaccinated.

- Influenza can be a serious illness that can put anyone in hospital or kill them.
- Vaccination is the best protection from influenza, and the best defence in preventing the spread of the illness.

Those most at risk are eligible for FREE influenza immunisation, and include:

- adults and children with long-term health conditions,
- pregnant women (any stage of pregnancy),
- and people aged 65 years and older.

Vaccinate early, it takes 7-14 days before the vaccine starts working. Getting vaccinated each year as early as possible will give you the best protection when the winter influenza season starts.

Available at all GPs and Health Centres – vaccination is FREE for everyone over 65 and for those most at risk.

Some Waikato pharmacies also offer influenza vaccination. Check with your local pharmacy or see list below.

Crashes spark safety concerns

EMMA JAMES

A barrier arm has been installed along a Cambridge road after a spate of incidents where cars crashed into the yard of a landscaping business.

Greenscape manager George Stafford was worried about a patch of road along Cambridge/Te Awamutu Rd, after three cars in as many months failed to take the corner and crashed down the hill into the yard of their property, smashing into concrete walls at the bottom.

He said the crashes had sparked safety concerns for his staff, customers and contractors.

“We have to provide a safe environment for all of those people.

“The issue for us is that if there’s a customer in the yard, they have no chance of getting out of the way,” he said.

He’s not sure if the problem had been related to signage or to the road surface.

His concerns prompted him to contact the Waipa District Council suggesting that a barrier arm might be a good option in resolving the issue.

Waipa District Council group manager service delivery Barry Bergin said the council shared Stafford’s concerns about the corner.

The road had been resealed in 2010 to improve traction in wet weather conditions, and more signage had been installed. That had made a difference – until recently.

“The accidents have been mainly at night, in wet weather and speed looks to be an issue in most of them,” Bergin said. They are yet to receive any police reports about the crashes, as they can take some time to arrive with the council, but council team members had inspected the site.

“Greasy when wet’ signs have been installed,” said Bergin.

Stafford’s suggestion of a barrier arm was also taken on board and one was installed there last week.

Bergin urged people to slow down as winter approaches.

“Official police reports from previous accidents show that speed on that bend has been a major contributor and in many instances, drivers have simply lost control of their vehicles.

“We’ll do all we can to make the road safer but we are imploring drivers to please take care,” he said.

Local MP in Tokaanu for Anzac

Local MP Louise Upston will not be at Cambridge’s ANZAC Day commemorative services this year.

Instead, she will attend the Dawn Service in Tokaanu, Turangi and districts, followed by a Civic Ceremony in Tokoroa to commemorate ANZAC Day.

“Last year I was in Tokoroa for the Dawn Parade and I attended the Service Parade and Civic Commemoration in Cambridge,” she said. “I am committed to attending many events around the electorate each ANZAC Day to pay my respects.

“ANZAC Day is a day of commemoration. It’s a day in which we pay our respects and we remember those fought for us and sacrificed so much to defend our country”, she said.

This year marks 101 years since the ANZAC’s landed at Gallipoli, the site of New Zealand’s first major battle of World War I.

Upston said it was a day where “we honour the New Zealanders who showed loyalty, courage, camaraderie, and commitment. “The red poppy symbolises the efforts of the many Kiwis from our region who contributed towards the efforts of our armed forces in Gallipoli. I will be wearing mine with pride.”

FILM FUNDRAISER

Tivoli Cinema's screening of The Insatiable Moon as part of the Autumn Festival succeeded in raising $600 for the New Zealand Mental Health Foundation.

Tivoli's director Karen Focas said the movie generated sufficient interest to warrant opening all three auditoriums. The movie was written, directed and produced by Cambridge film-makers Mike and Rosemary Riddell, and an active question and answer session after the film screening kept the Riddells busy for around 45 minutes. The film won best actor and best supporting actor in the 2011 NZ Film Awards.

VACCINATION CALL

Parents are being urged to vaccinate their children against whooping cough as new figures show NZ cases are up by over 108 percent on the same time last year.

More than a fifth of those cases are in the Waikato. The disease is said to hit New Zealand in cycles of two to five years, and with the last outbreak in 2011-13, another one is due. Specialists said it was "extremely traumatic" to have babies die from the disease when whooping cough was preventable. They said it was important that vaccinations were carried out on time, and that family members coming into contact with infants are also immunised to help stem outbreaks.

CHARITY VOTE

Waikato's Neighbourly members are being invited to vote for nine local charities through an April initiative that will also help them save on their power bill.

The Power Up Your Community campaign is supported by Neighbourly.co.nz and Contact Energy. Until the end of the month, any Waikato households joining Contact on a special fixed electricity pricing plan will receive $200 off their first electricity bill, with $50 also going to one of four local charities - Waikato Community Hospice, Waikato Women's Refuge Te Whakaruruhau, Child Cancer Foundation, and Waikato Plunket.

Convincing liars rewarded

EMMA JAMES

The winners of the 2016 Cooney Insurance Short Story Competition were announced at last week's opening of the Autumn Festival, and three women were rewarded for their 'convincing lies'.

That was this year's theme – one that proved popular with 89 entries in from around the country.

First place and $1000 went to Auckland's Ria Masae with her short story Porcelain.

Unable to attend the prizegiving, she penned a letter of thanks which was read out during the evening by Autumn Festival committee member Alan Milton.

In it, she said she had not won a short story competition before.

"When the lovely Julie [Epps] rang to inform me ... that my story had earned first place, my squeals of astonishment and delight were genuine," she wrote. "Julie's eardrums can attest to that

"I'm sure I speak for many writers, and aspiring writers, when I say we are always appreciative of literary avenues that not only offer spaces where we are motivated to challenge and experiment with our creativity, but also where we are given a sense of fulfilment when we are acknowledged for our craft.

"Know that I am utterly grateful and humbled that my story Porcelain was acknowledged in such high favour for such a rewarding prize."

Ohaupo's Amy Martin won $500 for her second place win with her story Good, and in third place was Melanie Dixon from Christchurch with her story The Albatross. She won $250.

David Cooney presents Ohaupo's Amy Martin with her award as the second place-getter in the 2016 Cooney Insurance Short Story Competition.

David Cooney's business Cooney Insurance has been sponsoring the short story competition for the past three years. He said it continues to grow – last year there were 70 entries, and this year there were 89.

"One of the pleasing aspects is the number of young people entering ... it's good to see the youth joining the competition," he said.

"The Autumn Festival is growing every year. It has become part of Cambridge and a lot of people in the community look forward to the event happening every year."

David said he had read 80 per cent of this year's entries, and enjoyed the "interesting works".

'Client satisfaction is a serious thing, and we take it personally. We have real pride in being experts at what we do. We are specialised in our field and differentiate ourselves from numerous competitors by striving to be better at design, better organised and more personal in our approach, including an unprecedented guarantee of design. We are Refrigeration, Heating and Air Conditioning Engineers and proud of it. And no... we don't sell T.Vs or toasters!'

our services

Heat Pump Sales & Installation

At Eastside Refrigeration we believe it's all about the personal touch. We take responsibility for all aspects of design, sales, installation and then follow up with post installation service and maintenance. We offer design advice for all homes and can visit you to see exactly what is required.

Commercial Sales & Installation

Commercial air conditioning requires extensive design and installation. Heading up our design team, Don Hollingsworth brings over 30 years of HVAC experience to Eastside and is a qualified Mechanical engineer. He and the team can design air conditioning and ventilation systems to suit both residential and commercial buildings of any size.

Servicing & Repair

The service department at Eastside focuses on air conditioning and refrigeration, with some work in ventilation. The team also service and maintain many specialised sites, including large cool rooms, blast freezers and specialised medical and scientific equipment. There is a rostered 24 hour, 7 day emergency call-out system for existing commercial clients.

Preventative Maintenance

Organising regular preventative maintenance with us will ensure you aren't paying more to heat and cool your home or office than you need to. For commercial applications, preventative maintenance is incredibly important and is often required for Council compliance. Any issues, even those that seem to be minor, can create inefficient systems making them less cost-effective.

introducing your Cambridge local

You don't have to freeze this winter when Eastside is just a phone call away

Here at Eastside we like to 'make it easy' for our customers. Local man and Eastside sales consultant, Shaun Livingstone attends to all Cambridge call-outs. He says there are many variants to getting the right heat pump or air conditioner installed in your home. 'The size of the room, the amount of insulation, the size and amount of glass in the room all affect what system we will recommend.'

'We offer free, expert advice. The advantage of using Eastside is that all of the work is done in-house. We do the consulting, sales, installation and servicing. We're your one-stop shop.'

Shaun has lived in Cambridge for most of his life, attended local schools and now lives here with his own family.

Giant insect creation for teacher

EMMA JAMES

A Cambridge Middle School classroom has built a giant wire insect to demonstrate what they have learned about 'mini beasts'.

Peter Ennis' room 11 class were planning to build it over two terms, but had to rush to complete it before their teacher's departure last Friday.

Ennis has worked at the school for five years, but is leaving to join Mahurangi College in Warkworth.

The giant insect is not the only big project Ennis has headed.

Last year his class created a massive globe, and in previous years he has done a large-scale solar system and a human body for which the children made the organs.

The insect was the hands-on aspect of their mini beasts programme, where students studied invertebrates and placed the mini beasts into different categories. They looked at insects, spiders and scorpions.

"The idea was to get them reading about it in their reading lessons ... they were doing the science of it in their science lessons," he said.

"We wanted to show parents that we could have some fun while still learning. There was a lot of working in teams, and teams working with other teams to problem-solve."

Peter Ennis is leaving Cambridge Middle School, but doing so in style by leaving behind a giant insect he made with his room 11 class.

He described the CMS children as "wonderful to teach" and said he was sad to leave. Students brought him an array of cakes and cards on his last day.

"It's been really sweet actually. I didn't realise they appreciated my teaching that much.

"I try to treat them like young adults and then they step up. Some of them have some amazing abilities and potential when they get the chance to show it," he said, adding that one of his 12-year-old students could write better than he could.

He wasn't planning on leaving part way through the year, but when his wife was offered a job up north they couldn't turn it down.

Ennis said he was thankful to the school for allowing him the freedom to run his own programmes like the insect.

Council looks at cycling road strategy

Cycling will be back on the agenda next month, when Waipa District Council considers a district-wide draft cycling strategy.

Council and community representatives developed the strategy to provide a blueprint for future road and off-road cycling initiatives.

Council agreed last June to spend $1.2 million on cycleways and walkways, ring-fenced largely for initiatives on the western side of the district. But manager strategy and community relations Jo Ireland said the work went beyond that – it aims to ensure that the district gets the best possible "bang for its buck".

"The strategy is about ensuring we have the right type of cycleways in the right place. We don't have unlimited money. Stakeholders are clear there needs to be a strategic and long-term approach to our investment in cycleways."

The strategy is still being finalised and will be presented on May 3. It recognises cycling's increasing economic value and widespread appeal.

The draft strategy has considered a range of potential cycling routes and will be putting forward a series of recommendations.

At St Kilda we offer you private, independent living options with the benefit of a small and friendly community. Enjoy peace of mind knowing that our care home is right next door, should your needs change.

WITH AUTHOR AND NUTRITIONAL BIOCHEMIST DR LIBBY

How much protein do I need?

I think I'm lacking in protein, I eat a relatively balanced diet and include meat but I read it's difficult to get enough protein. What are your thoughts on this? With thanks - Susie.

Hi Susie. Protein is an essential macronutrient. It supplies us energy, helps our bodies recover and is a critical part of our immune system. Proteins are composed of amino acids, which are the building blocks of muscle and other body proteins.

In the Western world it's pretty difficult to become protein deficient if you eat a varied diet consisting of whole foods.

The reasons you may not be getting enough protein are fairly straightforward such as, not consuming enough food in general (low energy/calorie restrictive diet), you're following a restricted diet such as a vegetarian or vegan diet, or if you have some digestive systems problems. If it is the latter, you may not absorb the amino acids from your proteins foods effectively. If you don't eat enough food, your body may not have enough amino acids for building muscles, immunity, and healthy hair, skin and nails etc.

Science currently suggests that the average person needs to consume somewhere between 0.5 and 1 gram of protein per kilogram of body weight. On average, this suggests that for a person who weighs 70kg, that would be about 55 grams of protein per day.

But consuming "adequate" amounts of protein depends on a number of factors including: your physical activity, age, current muscle mass or current state of health (particular medical conditions can require higher or lower consumptions of protein). Furthermore, nothing in nature is 100 per cent protein. Many people have been misinformed about how much protein they actually need for optimal health.

For vegetarians or vegans, almonds and some other nuts are a good source of protein.

I'm a health coach and I wanted to know what your top three health tips would be for anyone wanting to lead a healthier lifestyle? Thanks, Chrystal.

Hi Chrystal. It's difficult to choose just three – but I think these tips are great for anyone wanting to improve their health and wellbeing, regardless of their current health status;

1. Instead of focusing on eating less of something that isn't good for you, focus on eating more whole real food.

2. Become breath aware. A lot of people live on adrenalin and it can cause a host of problems. Diaphragmatic breathing lowers stress hormones more effectively than anything.

3. Stay in touch with what a gift life is. When we feel grateful we can't be stressed.

Wakeboarder aims for worlds

EMMA JAMES

After a gnarly wakeboarding accident last year, Karapiro Water Ski Club member Nick Beale is back on the water and aiming for a world title.

He heads for America next month to train in preparation for next year's world championships in Spain.

Beale has been wakeboarding for 15 years, but had to take a break after he "basically got a cookie cutter to the leg" in February last year.

He was riding a jump slide when he slipped through the gap and into the second rail, resulting in a compound fracture of the tibia and fibula.

For two weeks he wasn't allowed to sit upright and couldn't put weight on it for more than a month. He wasn't sure how well he would walk again.

"I lost a lot of weight and I had a blood transfusion but I had a bad reaction to it so I was very weak and pale for a while," he said.

Despite the odds, only nine months later he was back on the board – but he has been taking it easy as he still needs to rebuild the muscle.

"The last thing I want to do is go through months of recovery to injure myself again.

"I've really had to adjust my riding style to have two thirds of my weight on my good leg and one third of my weight on my bad leg," he said.

Nick Beale had a nasty wakeboarding accident, but that hasn't stopped him from aiming for world championships next year.

He doesn't think he's lost any confidence, but his first test will be at his first rail jumping competition.

"Sports Med Physio said I'm the one they've had the most appointments with," Beale laughed.

When he's in the US, he will be based in Orlando to learn some new tricks.

He first got into wakeboarding when his uncle bought a boat. He started taking it more seriously when he bought a boat himself, and has been competing for about four years.

Now he ranks 9th in New Zealand in the open men category.

He is hoping to raise money for his trip to Orlando.

Last year's Gallipoli-themed light show at the town hall drew crowds.
There will be another light show on Sunday night.

Monday's Anzac Day commemorations will start with the Dawn Service outside the Cambridge Town Hall, starting at 6am. Those attending that service are invited to the Prince Albert afterwards for refreshments hosted by the RSA.

The Civic Commemorative Service being held inside the town hall will start at 9am. This service will be followed by the placing of wreaths at the cenotaph. Those wanting to take part in the Civic Commemorative Service Parade should assemble on the corner of Empire/Alpha streets at 8.45am.

A themed light show will be projected onto the façade of the Cambridge Town Hall from 7pm-9pm on Sunday evening as part of planned Anzac Day 2016 commemorations. Planned by the Cambridge Anzac Committee, the show will be accompanied by an ANZAC Salute Concert featuring the massed brass bands of Cambridge, Hamilton and Matamata. Last year, hundreds of people saw the front of the hall transformed through a Gallipoli-themed Light Show. This year, the two-hour light show will focus on the Battle of the Somme (1916), the Battle of Crete (1941), and the loss of the Royal Navy's HMS Neptune (1941).

This year marks the centenary of the Battle of the Somme which was fought from July to November 1941 near the Somme River in France. It was there that the majority of New Zealanders were killed or wounded during World War I, and where New Zealand experienced its worst day in military history in terms of loss of life. The Somme took a huge toll on the 15,000 members of the New Zealand Division, with roughly one in seven killed, and about four in 10 wounded.

This year also marks the 75th anniversary of the Battle of Crete. Over 12 days in May 1941, New Zealanders, British, Australian and Greek troops tried to fight off a huge German airborne assault. The battle ended with the evacuation to Egypt of the bulk of the Allied force.

Also marking its 75th anniversary this year is the sinking of the HMS Neptune, on December 19, 1941, off the Libyan coast. Of the 757 lives lost, 150 were New Zealanders.

The light show on Sunday night will also feature poppies. Both the Cambridge clock tower and the cenotaph will be lit in red, toning in with the colour of the poppy.

White crosses will also feature adjacent to the cenotaph, representing servicemen and women from Cambridge who served in theatres of war, but never returned.

Van Tuyl and Double J win at Kihikihi

DIANA DOBSON

Katharine Van Tuyl and Double J Sunshine sealed their win in the Waipa Home of Champions CIC3* with a stunning clear round at the Kihikihi International Horse Trial this month.

The two, who this year also showjumped to grand prix level, were nearly 10 penalty points clear of the second-placed Dannie Lodder (Auckland) aboard Tomahawk II, with Donna Edwards-Smith (Matangi) and Mr Hokey Pokey moving back up the leaderboard to take third place.

Van Tuyl was over the moon with her win, which came a decade after she last competed at Kihikihi.

She was the only rider to go clear over the Gerrit Beker-designed showjumping course, albeit garnering two time faults.

But Van Tuyl was as cool as a cucumber as she guided her chestnut to victory.

“I was getting jumped right out of the saddle out there ... he was just jumping bigger and bigger. He was just awesome.

“This is a class I have always wanted to win but everything gets sold, so this is just fantastic,” said Van Tuyl, who is now considering a start at the 4* in Adelaide in November.

Lodder had two rails down – one for her and the other for the horse – and picked up two time faults, but was very happy to take second place.

Edwards-Smith was rapt to come up onto the podium.

She and her palomino had been leading after the dressage, but a conservative cross country saw her slip to fifth. She had a fall in the CIC2* cross country, but still rode Mr Hokey Pokey in the 3*.

For the showjumping, she put boots on the horse making for a rather challenging ride which saw them take a rail and add a single time fault to their tally.

It was the 20th birthday for the Kihikihi International Horse Trial and tributes were paid to those who had worked so hard to create an award-winning event.

Cambridge trainers dominant across NZ

GEORGE SIMON
Racing

Talk about an embarrassment of riches.

Cambridge-trained horses dominated the three New Zealand venues last Saturday.

Tauranga saw Cambridge horses win six of the eight races on the programme. Battle Time got the ball rolling in his fresh up run this preparation.

The Tim and Margaret Carter-trained three year old broke his maiden with a tenacious victory.

It's Bianca scored for Anne Herbert in the following race. Ridden by Trudy Thornton, It's Bianca sat outside the leader before kicking clear over the concluding stages.

She scored comfortably, as did Meeska Mooska in the next race. Trained by Graham Thomas and Nick Smith, Meeska Mooska dashed away to win by three-and-a-half lengths.

Inastride capped off some recent good form with a win for the powerful Baker/Forsman combination.

In the next race, Blizzard proved too strong for race favourite Spoke To Carlo.

It was a good training feat from Emma Lee and David Browne to have Blizzard ready after an enforced lay off.

Capping off the day at Tauranga was the Catherine Cameron-trained Light Shadow. After settling last, Light Shadow overpowered his rivals to score for apprentice Shaun McKay.

The local winning spree continued at Hawkes Bay on Saturday. Tony Pike collected a double with Chenille and Summer's Day both successful.

Chenille justified her favouritism winning the feature race, the Hawkes Bay Gold Cup. The other Cambridge winner at Hawkes Bay was impressive two year old, Bonneval.

Riding to victory

Rider Katie Smith and pony Lacey were the overall individual points winners at the Riding for Disabled Regional Games. Here they are pictured with Di Gascoigne and Helen McLean. The games were held last month at the Cambridge RDA grounds where 35 riders competed from Hamilton, Otorohanga, Te Awamutu, Te Aroha and Cambridge. They played games such as the Vege Soup game, where riders had to drop each vegetable into one of the 'soup pots' after weaving through cones.

WAIKATO HUNT CELEBRATIONS

A week of events marking the 125th anniversary of the Waikato Hunt, will run from April 24 - 30.

Waikato Hunt chairperson Greg Kyte said one of the biggest days will be the national hound show, which comes to the Mystery Creek Polo Grounds next Wednesday, April 27, with about 500 riders.

"Every hunt will be represented; they will have their hounds that they'll be showing. We've got Lizzie Penny from Harrier Hounds in England coming to be our judge," he said.

"There will be a teams chase with about 14 different hunts competing for the fastest time over a course of jumps."

On Friday (April 29) the Waikato Hunt is hosting a ball at Mystery Creek Events Centre. Tickets ($95) include dinner. The band Squeeze will also be playing. Tickets are available to purchase through gregkyte@hotmail.com.

YOUNG RIDERS SELECTED

Two Cambridge cyclists are among 12 named on Saturday by Cycling New Zealand to contest next month's Canberra Junior Road Cycling Tour on May 7-8.

The Under-17 riders will contest a 15.4km individual time trial and 39km opening stage on the first day, with the second day comprising a further 39km stage for the girls and 51km stage for the boys followed by a criterium.

"The selection was from a growing and highly competitive talent pool which indicates an emerging interest in competitive cycling with this age group and burgeoning talent," said Cycling New Zealand development manager Graeme Hunn.

NZ team members are:
 Girls: Lee Boon (New Plymouth), Nia Dixon (Cambridge), Niamh Fisher-Black (Nelson), Britney Kerr (Nelson), McKenzie Milne (Hamilton), Ally Wollaston (Auckland).

Boys: Finn Fisher-Black

STRAPPING WORKSHOP

A sport strapping workshop will take place from 6pm to 7.30pm at Cambridge's Sport Waikato offices (16 Dick St) on Tuesday, April 26. The cost is $12 per person (to cover strapping resource costs), and people need to bring their own scissors. The workshop will give coaches, parents and managers an understanding of sports injuries, and will offer training on protective and preventative strapping. The facilitator is Kate Ward, a registered physiotherapist from Cambridge Community and Sport.

For more information and registration, contact Janis Jeffers on 823 2510 or 027 475 7747, or email waipa@sportwaikato.org.nz.

Winter is Coming - time for closed in shoes

Don't cram your feet back into those old shoes that are too tight or don't feel right. Footwear can be your foot's best friend or worst enemy depending on the chosen type of shoe and the fitting selected.

Call and organise a time with Megan - a trained experienced registered podiatrist and she will take you through our full range of options.

Extra depth and extra width comfort based footwear is now available at Waikato podiatry clinic Cambridge.

Customer Support Officer

- Part Time – 11 Hours Per Week
- Mon & Tue 9.00am until 3.00pm with availability to support additional hours during busy times

Here at Waipa District Council we have a clear vision – to partner the community in promoting the well-being of the Waipa District and its people. We have a fantastic opportunity for a part time permanent Customer Support Officer working 11 hours per week to join our team in Cambridge.

In this role you will be responsible for ensuring that our customers experience is positive, be an ambassador for Council activities, and to respond to and educate people about our services. Processing applications, managing requests for service, problem solving, and payment transactions are all part of a busy day. Your advanced customer service skills along with the structured training you will receive, will allow you to resolve the majority of customer interactions at first point of contact.

Our Customer Support Officers work in a fast paced, ever changing environment so to be successful in this role you will need to be organised, IT savvy, have great attention to detail along with a genuine enthusiasm to continually upskill and deliver seamless customer service.

Our team are engaged, fun, hardworking and focused on delivering excellence in all that they do. If you would like to join us, we would love to hear from you.

Closing Date: Midday on Monday, 2 May 2016.

Visit www.findyourplace.co.nz to apply by completing the prerequisite online application form. All applications must be submitted online via our website. If you have any questions, please contact Greg Tims & Associates on 07 959 3058.

Open mornings Saturday, Sunday and Public Holidays

The Great NZ Food Show (GNZFS), showcasing the best in food, wine, delicious edibles and innovative products, comes to Mystery Creek on April 30 and May 1.

The Heathcote Appliances Cooking Theatre will feature chef and foodwriter Ray McVinnie; television host, author and traveller Brett McGregor; and popular New Zealand's cooks and cook book author, Chelsea Winter.

Also there will be the talented chef from Te Waihou Bistro, Jimmy Boswell; NZ Beef & Lamb 2016 ambassador Andrew Clarke from Victoria Street Bistro; and the 2014 My Kitchen Rules NZ winners from Cambridge, Neena Truscott and Belinda MacDonald.

"Last year the GNZFS created quite the buzz," said Neena. "We loved being involved, and this year we have some new and exciting recipes to showcase for the first time from our upcoming cookbook.

"Getting involved in local events is really important to us. Catch us in the Heathcotes Appliances Cooking Theatre, or join our Wintec Cooking Class which will be loaded with creativity, heart, and wholefood goodness."

The Wintec Cooking Classes will showcase recipes, with classes offering visitors step-by-step lessons delivered by talented chefs.

"The Wintec cooking classes are a unique part of our show," said event manager Michele Connell. "Students will come away with new recipes and skills, and an unforgettable experience."

"The entire show is all about foodietainment. Like the hilarious Vilagrad Winery Mystery Cook off, where chefs have 20 minutes and mystery ingredients to create the most delicious dish as voted by the audience, it's great fun."

Visitors will be able to indulge in a gourmet lunch in the Black Dog Seat & Eat Zone. Those inclined to make a weekend of it can bring their motorhome or caravan and stay for free – enjoying the setting and save by purchasing a weekend pass to the show.

Sumac lamb quick and easy

If the weather allows, cook this lamb on the barbecue.

SUMAC LAMB WITH ROAST PUMPKIN AND SPINACH COUSCOUS

Roast pumpkin and spinach couscous

300g pumpkin or butternut, peeled and diced 1.5-2cm
 1½ cups chicken or vegetable stock
 1½ cups couscous
 1 tablespoon olive oil
 ¾ teaspoon salt
 100-120g bag baby spinach leaves
 1 courgette

Sumac lamb

600g lamb rump or leg steaks (at room temperature)
 1 tablespoon sumac (or sprinkle with lemon zest after cooking lamb)

Dressing

2 tablespoons olive oil

2 teaspoons runny honey
 1 teaspoon mustard (e.g. wholegrain, Dijon)
 3 teaspoons vinegar (e.g. red wine, white wine)

Lamb drizzle

1 teaspoon runny honey
 1 teaspoon white wine vinegar
 1 teaspoon Dijon mustard
 ¼ cup mayonnaise

To serve

50g feta cheese

Preheat oven to 220 degrees Celsius. Line an oven tray with baking paper. Preheat barbecue grill to high (if using).

Toss pumpkin on prepared tray with a drizzle of olive oil and season with salt and pepper. Roast for 15-18 minutes, until tender and starting to brown. Turn once during cooking. Bring stock to the boil in a medium pot on high heat. Once boiling turn off heat, add couscous, olive oil and salt. Stir, cover and leave for 5 minutes. Once cooked, fluff up grains with a fork. Pat lamb dry with paper towels, season with salt and coat with sumac (if using). Heat a drizzle of oil in a fry-pan on medium-high heat. Cook lamb, in batches, for about 2 minutes each side for medium-rare (depending on thickness) or until cooked to your liking. Cover to rest for 5 minutes then slice.

Roughly chop spinach and grate courgette. Add to couscous along with cooked pumpkin and gently toss to combine. In a small bowl, whisk all couscous dressing ingredients together. Add to pumpkin and spinach couscous and gently mix.

Mix all lamb drizzle ingredients together in a small bowl.

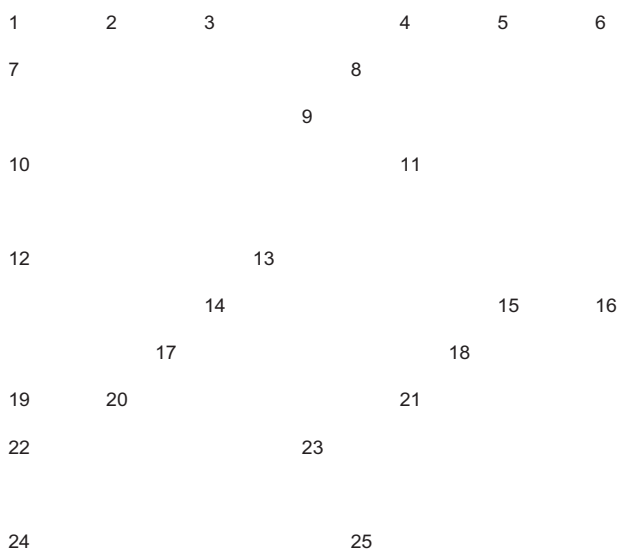

To serve, spoon roast pumpkin and spinach couscous onto plates. Crumble over feta, top with sumac lamb and drizzle over sumac lamb drizzle.
